

Book Week at SJWS Junior Section: A Celebration of Reading and Creativity

From 23rd to 27th February 2025, SJWS Junior Section hosted its annual Book Week, an exciting event filled with literary activities for students of Playgroup to Class 4. The week was designed to cultivate a love for books and storytelling, making reading an engaging and immersive experience.

During Book Week, Playgroup to KG-I students enjoyed a range of activities including drawing, coloring and displaying Goldilocks and the Three Bears and The Three Little Pigs. They explored materials like straw, sticks and bricks from the stories. Teachers read English and Bangla stories, students created chain stories and book covers, and parents gifted books and candies when they visited each class to read out enchanting and thought-provoking stories. The fun-filled activities encouraged creativity, storytelling, and a love for reading among the young learners. On the other hand, in the Middle Section, throughout the week, students participated in various creative activities. They designed book covers, engaged in picture writing and listened to Aesop's fables while discussing the morals they conveyed. They also wrote blurbs on their favourite stories, described characters from beloved books, and summarized their plots. Another fun activity was making comic strips which allowed students to bring their favourite tales to life in a visually engaging format. Another mentionable activity was the creation of a bulletin board, styled like Netflix home screen where students showcased books they had recently read, were currently reading and wished to read next. This innovative approach encouraged peer recommendations and sparked curiosity about new books.

Adding to the excitement, students of Playgroup to Class 2 dressed up as their favourite book characters and displayed them during the morning assembly, bringing fictional heroes and heroines to life. Furthermore, parents and grandparents joined students in special storytelling sessions, creating memorable moments of shared literary joy. Book Week at SJWS was a remarkable celebration of reading, creativity and imagination, inspiring students to embark on lifelong journeys through the magical world of books.
